TINA M. MULVENNA, RN

Independent Legal Nurse Consultant

More than three decades of nursing experience have shaped a career spanning direct patient care, research, quality improvement, acute and post-acute care, and healthcare administration.

My work is grounded in the perspective of a nurse who understands how patient condition, treatment, response, and documentation develop over time - and how those details come together within the medical record.

CLINICAL CONSULTING CAPABILITIES

MEDICAL RECORD REVIEW & CLINICAL ANALYSIS

Methodical review of complex medical records to identify clinically relevant findings, trace the course of care, and examine completeness and continuity within the record.

CHRONOLOGY & CASE ORGANIZATION

Organization of extensive medical information into clear timelines and structured summaries so key events and changes in clinical condition can be readily understood.

CLINICAL RESEARCH & LITERATURE REVIEW

Use of relevant medical literature and evidence-based resources to provide context for complex clinical questions.

STANDARD OF CARE & CLINICAL PRACTICE REVIEW

Review of documented care within the context of applicable standards of care, accepted clinical practice, policies, procedures, and the circumstances reflected in the record.

CLINICAL SYNTHESIS & REPORTING

Synthesis of complex clinical information into clear, well-structured findings that clients can readily understand and utilize.

A career shaped across the continuum of nursing.

My career has progressed across the continuum of nursing - from direct patient care and research to administrative and leadership roles.

Along the way, my responsibilities expanded beyond direct patient care to include quality and regulatory responsibilities and the implementation and oversight of healthcare processes, strengthening my ability to communicate effectively and build productive relationships.

Each stage of my career strengthened a different dimension of my clinical reasoning and expanded the way I assess complex patient care.

Over time, I developed a highly refined ability to see the larger clinical picture - to identify relationships and patterns within complex information, distinguish clinically significant findings from surrounding detail, and organize those findings into a coherent clinical picture that clients can understand and use.

Today, I bring those perspectives together through independent consulting - drawing on the experience of an entire nursing career to support clear, disciplined, and objective work for my clients.

CRITICAL CARE NURSING

High-acuity clinical care requiring comprehensive assessment, prioritization, and informed clinical decision-making.

RESEARCH

Research methodology, evidence evaluation, protocol and regulatory requirements, research documentation, and IRB preparation and submission.

QUALITY IMPROVEMENT

Evaluation of healthcare processes, quality outcomes, regulatory requirements, and patient safety.

ACUTE & POST-ACUTE CARE

Clinical experience across care settings, including transitions in care and changing treatment and functional needs.

HEALTHCARE ADMINISTRATION & LEADERSHIP

Department and program oversight, policy and procedure implementation, regulatory compliance, staff development, and interdisciplinary collaboration.

Focused. Purposeful. Built on trust.

The principles that guide the work are intentionally simple: thoughtful analysis, dependable relationships, continued growth, and clarity in the way information is presented.

SERVE WITH EXCELLENCE

Provide thoughtful clinical analysis grounded in experience, careful review, professional integrity, and attention to detail.

BUILD TRUSTED PROFESSIONAL RELATIONSHIPS

Build lasting professional relationships grounded in trust, reliability, and open communication - honoring commitments, respecting client timelines and deadlines, and delivering work with consistency, responsiveness, and a commitment to client satisfaction.

CONTINUOUS PROFESSIONAL GROWTH

Remain current with evolving clinical practice, medical literature, research, healthcare standards, and developments relevant to professional clinical consulting.

BRING CLARITY TO COMPLEXITY

Organize and present complex medical information with the clarity and structure clients need to understand and utilize the record.

Experience that brings perspective. Analysis that brings clarity. Work that earns trust.

PROFESSIONAL CONNECTION
